

Dr. Cammy Lehr is an education specialist at the Minnesota Department of Education (MDE). She coordinates work building statewide capacity for effective implementation of educational practices in partnership with staff members from the National State Implementation and Scaling-Up of Evidence-Based Practices Center. She also coordinates GradMinnesota—a collaboration between MDE, the Lieutenant Governor’s Office, and the Minnesota Alliance With Youth that aims to increase the graduation rate for all Minnesota students. Previously, she directed MDE’s Dropout Prevention, Retention, and Graduation Initiative and codirected an application of Check & Connect, an evidence-based model of student engagement.
